(International News Service)
WARREN, O., July 18.—Police searched the Ohio hills today for two bandits who escaped following a gun battle in which one bandit was shot and killed, and two policemen were wounded.
The wounded policemen are Sergeant John Heinlein and Patrolman Arthur Lundy. Heinlein is near death in the Warren hospital from a bullet in his chest. Lundy suffered a shot through the right wrist.
The police officers surprised the two bandits in the office of the Duquesne Oil company, and a terrific gun battle followed.
Patrolman Conway, who answered the call with Heinlein and Lundy, stopped to help the fallen sergeant, and Lundy shot it out with the bandits, killing one. The other two bandits made their getaway.

SOME PROBES WILL BE INAUGURATED

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 18.— Congress had scattered far and wide today but a handful of members remained to carry on the dozen investigations of wide variety ordered by the session.
Congress adjourned on Saturday night.

With all of the house members and a third of the senate battling for their own political future, politics became the chief occupation of the congress until November.
Revelations of some of the inquiries, however, may play an important role in the campaign. They will also lay the basis for legislative activity of vast importance next December.

Investigations of the Federal Farm Board and the St. Lawrence waterways treaty, ordered by the senate, are expected by both Republicans and Democrats to furnish material for the campaign.

Legislature Ready For De-

HARRISBURG, July 18.—Relif legislation reaches the critical stage tonight with the main scene shifting to the senate.

A rising tide of resentment against widespread slashes in government construction confronted legislators returning here today and stamped the fate of the Steele bill and its companion measures with uncertainty.

Rigid economy as the groundwork of the state-wide relief program, already advanced to within a step of final passage, has drawn fire at a half dozen significant sources. The attitude of organized labor, stoutly assailing the assembly's work, put teeth into Gov. Gifford Pinchot's veto threat and left lawmakers in somewhat of a quandary.

In Senate Committee.

Most of the appropriation cutting bills are now in the hands of the senate committee. As the assembly adjourned last Thursday, the plan of campaign was to report the amended bills to the upper branch tonight, pass them on third reading and then bring them up for final passage tomorrow.

Executive veto then would return them to the floor and observes envision a bitter struggle to enact the program over the veto.

The $24,000,000 Talbot relief bill which would use the money available through reduction of appropriations is on the third reading calendar in the house. Action on this measure will about complete the

State Man Asks For Improvements At City Lock-Up

Council Gets Communication
From Harrisburg Following Recent Inspection

B. L. Scott, director of Bureau of Restoration at Harrisburg, sent a communication to City Council this morning asking the city fathers to make necessary improvements at the city jail for the men and women's quarters. The letter follows a recent inspection by one of the investigators for the department made here several weeks ago.

The state official asks that additional cots be placed in the two big women's cells, and that the cells in the men's block be given a coat of white-wash. It was also suggested that the sanitary conditions in the cells could be better taken care of.
Mayor Mayne took exception to the fact that the letter said lights should be left burning in the men's cell block, by saying that he has never noticed the lights being out.
Upon motion of Councilman Hoyland, the letter was filed for future action.
"We try to run a first class jail not a hotel for our guests" said Mayor Mayne, but they never stay long enough to go to a lot of expense of fixing up the quarters, like a New York hotel.
"I have sentenced some of the men seven days out of the week, and if the place was depressing they certainly wouldn't want to stay in it."

Drastic Action In Germany Due To Bloody Riot

Offenders May Be Shot If Caught Carrying Arms
Or Explosives

DECREE GOES OUT BY GOVERNMENT

Pre-Election Demonstrations
In Germany Take Toll
Of 16 Lives Recently

(International News Service)
BERLIN, July 18.—Impelled to drastic action by the bloody political battles of Sunday, the government today issued a deree prohibiting parades, demonstrations and open air meetings throughout the Reich.
The decree was understood to be a preliminary measure to be tried out for a week to curb pre-election demonstrations which yesterday took a toll of 16 lives throughout Germany. If the step in that time should prove to be ineffective, even more drastic measures will be instituted.

Emergency Decree
"The government is considering an emergency decree providing the death penalty for violators of arms and explosives regulations," an official communique said.

"Offenders may be shot on sight if caught in possession of arms or explosives."

The announcement concluded with the statement it considered Communists the Reich's most dangerous disturbers of the public peace.

Three Stringent Points
The decree was issued after a meeting of the cabinet with chancellor Von Papen at which these possible course of action were discussed:

1. Proclamation of a "state of emergency," or modified martial law, either country-wide or in the areas threatened with further political disorder.
 2. Appointment of a Reich commissioner for Prussia.
 3. Prohibition of the Communist party.
- It was admitted in government circles that the bloody conflicts of the Sabbath, in which at least a dozen persons were killed and hundreds injured, would probably force the hand of Chancellor Von Papen, who has full authority from President Von Hindenburg to take whatever action is deemed necessary.

ADVERTISING IN NEWS PAYS

Does News' advertising pay?
That question bothered Dr.
Walter E. McClure last night as he delivered a special sermon at the First Presbyterian church last night, so at the outset he chose to investigate just to set himself sure.

When he asked his overflow audience of listeners how many had come to hear him because of the sermon announcement in The News, a great wave of hands went up.
The remainder were members of his congregation and friends.

Dr. McClure Scores Present Day Movies After Western Tour

"God has a controversy with the people of the land—our land is filled with evil!" exclaimed Dr. Walter E. McClure, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, downtown, as a capacity audience last night heard him pointedly sum up conditions he saw on a recent western trip.
Dr. and Mrs. McClure attended the Presbyterian general assembly at Denver and visited Los Angeles and the Pacific coast region after it adjourned. Dr. McClure related in his sermon the impression a Sunday afternoon Hollywood visit left.
"What we saw made our hearts heavy," he began. "Particularly did our trip along the beach astound us.
There were eight miles of naked humanity lolling over the sands engaged in all kinds of sports. It looked as if the whole city was out for a gala day."
And Dr. McClure said that in his mind he wondered how many of those in the sands had a knowledge of God; how many had ever visited a Sunday School or church.
All of them, he decided, had cut entirely loose from the church. What he saw elsewhere was shameful, he said.
Dr. McClure chose his text from a part of Hosea, relating what the prophets forecast for the wicked kingdoms of old. He recalled a recent statement of the Pope, wherein

Pinchot Says Legislature Is Not Curtailing

Says Legislative Extravagance Could Be Eliminated To Save

CITES INSTANCES IN LETTER TODAY

Declares Economy Is Not Hitting Judicial Or Legislative Branches

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 18.—
Citing numerous instances of what he considers extravagance in the legislative branch of the government, Gov. Gifford Pinchot in a letter addressed to Rep. Joseph Steele, chairman of the house appropriations committee, today suggested that some reasonable economies be applied.

The governor's letter showed that a careful study had been made of the house expenditures in recent years and that so far nothing has been done to reduce them.

No Cut For Legislature.

The cut which the Steele bill proposes for the governor's office is 25 per cent. The governor pointed out that the house economy program for itself reduces expenditures one-fourteenth of one per cent while not a single penny is cut from the judicial branch of government.

The letter pointed out that there are three branches of government—legislative, judicial and executive.
The fact that only the last-mentioned received the attention of the economy program framers brought reference by the governor to what might be considered "discrimination."

"Is there really nothing the members of the house could get along without?" the governor asked. He then proceeded to detail some of the things which he considers unwise at the present time.

"Loot Packages."
One instance cited was the distribution of the so-called "loot packages" which contain pads, pencils and toilet articles. The records show

COLLINS WILL NOT RESIGN STATE JOB

Makes Reply To Governor Pinchot

Public Service Commissioner Refuses To Obey Request Of Governor

HOPEFUL HEALTH WILL BE RESTORED

(International News Service) WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 18.—Emerson Collins, Public Service Commissioner whose resignation Gov. Pinchot asked because of ill health, will not voluntarily resign immediately.

In a formal reply to the Governor, made public today, Collins said he was hopeful his condition would improve shortly and enable him to resume his work on the commission. In this hope he has been encouraged by his medical adviser, he said.

Collins asserted that in view of the request, and notwithstanding the fact that his term expires in a year, he will accede and tender his resignation if his hope of recovery is not realized.

The commission pointed out in his letter, however, that he has been in the service of the state 23 years and said he felt this long service entitled him to "reasonable consideration" during the period of his illness.

"Devil Has Control" The modern movies he strongly decried as the reason for it, all declaring boldly and blankly that they're "of the devil." Human hands invented the motion picture machine, was the way in which he described it, but now the devil has control of the industry.

The minister hurled a strong challenge at Will R. Hays, so-called movie czar, to pare down his $250,000 salary in order that movie overhead might be reduced and shameful newspaper advertising might not be needed to attract vast crowds to finance such expense.

The News was praised for its clean and fair policy, but Dr. McClure said that here and there movie advertising creeps in that causes his righteous wrath to stir. On his pulpit was evidence of it, he said, but he declared himself too much of a gentleman to read it.

The News was commended for the firm stand it took when Sunday motion pictures were being shown here. "At a considerable cost," he told the audience, "the company rejected advertising for these shows."

Dr. McClure will next Sunday preach on "Christian Marriage," another sermon in which he will describe further his reactions to a part of his western trip.

shoulders developed them by lying on the large river rocks at the mills. The place was thick with bathers.

It is too bad that such a pretty place like McConnell's Mills must be so difficult to reach. Although it is not far from the Butler highway the unimproved road leading down to the mill is very rough, steep and narrow. In spite of this, over half a hundred cars visited the spot yesterday.

A word of praise of several of the high divers at McConnell's Mills yesterday: they were the best one of the Pa Newc has seen this summer.

It was fairly warm Sunday, but nothing compared to what it was a year ago on the same date, when the temperature registered 98 degrees. Bathing pools were popular places Sunday as the hot sun beat down, but in the shade it was very comfortable, a cool breeze being noticed all day long.

Auto drivers on the Perry Highway near Portersville early Sunday morning were rather interested to find eight or ten state highway patrolmen stopping every car on the road, and making an examination of the credentials of drivers and for the cars.

One of the Pa Newcs was in the Wurtzburg vicinity yesterday and crossed over the narrow bridge which is soon to be replaced by a wide and modern structure. It is easy to understand the need for a new bridge after passing over the old. The approaches are especially dangerous, there being sharp turns at both ends. There will be straightened, of course.

Low back bathing suits, simple sun-tan dresses with ties at the shoulders, sailor "slacks" and multi-colored beach pajamas are being followed in a great big way by local young women who go in for the water-side sports, Pa Newc notices.

It must be "leave period" for two New Castle sailor lads. At least two walked down Washington street donned in the uniform of the sea today.

A handsome collie dog sat leisurely in the rumble seat of a coupe that drove along a downtown street this morning. The car carried an Arkansas license, so we take it that dog will be an educated one at the time it gets back home. It twisted its head around every way as the car passed down the street—sort of poised in that tourist-like way.

County Farm Agent Harold McClure has a peculiar worm at his office, which was brought in by Mrs. Rachel Wilder. It is a large green worm with what appears to be a tremendous head.

It can extend this head at will, much like a cobra does. On the top are two spots which appear to be eyes, while a yellow stripe runs around the neck. If there is such a thing in the insect world, this fellow is probably a buffalo worm. His head and shoulders give him that appearance.

ing to about $20,000, was left to the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company, in trust for Mrs. Ella May Lusk, a sister of decedent. At Mrs. Lusk's death the property was to go absolutely to Mrs. Casillo.

In explanation decedent wrote in his will, "I make this provision for my extreme kindness and thoughtfulness to me during the time I was a patient in the Jameson Memorial hospital."

On June 28 Mrs. Lusk filed a caveat against the probating of the will, alleging that at the time it was made Mr. Chambers was not of sound and disposing mind, and that undue influence had been used.

These allegations are denied in the petition which Mrs. Casillo filed this morning. She says that at the time the will was drawn Mr. Chambers was in his right mind and fully competent to direct the disposal of his property.

Judge R. L. Hildebrand issued a rule on Mrs. Lusk to show cause why the petition to have the records certified into court should not be granted. Hearing will be held on July 25. At this time it is expected that considerable testimony will be taken from those who were familiar with the condition of Mr. Chambers at the time the will was written.

agreed program of 14 points to lowly places on the calendar. Cuts in appropriations would not equal the amount of the Talbot appropriation, but there is another Talbot bill awaiting action in the senate which would lapse unexpended and unnumbered 1929 appropriations to the amount of about $3,000,000. Another bill in the house would appropriate $800,000 from the foreign fire insurance fund to the general fund. Savings in other directions would be expected to balance the budget.

The senate's action tonight, or its vote tomorrow, on final passage of the $22,750,000 cutting bill is viewed as the factor which will determine the ultimate fate of the Talbot-Turner bloc program as well as the prospects for early adjournment. The senate has ten bills on its third reading calendar tonight while the house is prepared to act on 11 measures finally. Among the senate measures are these:

Woodward: Making application to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for an advance of the amount the state is entitled to receive from funds made available by congress for relief. Mansfield: Amending the act permitting liens for taxes by providing that tax claims shall bear interest from the time of filing. McElwee: house: Providing for the employment of persons entitled to relief in any public developments or improvements. Trainer: Providing for the employment of the National Guard in the improvement of military reservations of the commonwealth. Elder: house: Repealing an appropriation of $5,000 for the state's participation in the Chicago centennial celebration. Sterling: house: Authorizing municipal subdivisions to negotiate emergency loans during 1932. Talbot: house: Lapsing all unexpended and unnumbered balances of appropriations made in 1929.

In House. Included in the bills ready for final action in the house tonight are the following: Empowering cities and boroughs to levy additional taxes for general revenue purposes. Nothnagle: Abating penalties on local taxes and providing for the collection of six per cent on delinquent taxes. Staudenmeyer: Amending the motor transport gross receipts tax by eliminating the credit for registration fees and other taxes paid by such taxpayers. Baldwin: senate: Amending the constitution to authorize the governor to borrow money from the United States when money for the states has been provided by congress. Freeman: senate: Conferring additional powers upon the secretary of banking with regard to the leasing of real estate, the pledge of assets in his possession as security for loans and the sale of listed and unlisted securities.

Sterling: Providing for the settlement and collection of franchise tax on foreign corporations. Blumberg and Witkin: Increasing the amount of the liquid fuels tax revenue to be paid to counties. Bell: senate: Regulating the adjournment and readjustment of sales of seated lands during periods of economic depression. Talbot: Appropriating $24,000,000 to the political subdivisions of the state charged by law with the care of the poor and providing for the allocation and use of the moneys so appropriated.

Slain Man Identified The man slain in the street battle was identified as Owen Hunter of Warren. Police Sergeant John Heinlein was shot in the chest during the clash and Patrolman Arthur Lundy was wounded in the right arm.

Taken into custody several hours after the street battle, Rotunno was subjected to a vigorous grilling during which he admitted, Sheriff Risher said, that he and two accomplices—Owen and a third man for whom a widespread search is now under way—killed Marshal Vassinder at Newton Falls.

R. F. C. LOANS TO INDUSTRY

SUGGESTION made locally that loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to industry, should be granted only on condition that they are to be used to continue employment of workers, or to start idle plants, or to add additional workers, is one that has a lot of merit.

Certain it is that the surest method of bringing United States out of the industrial depression is to increase employment to a normal stage. This can only be done by putting the unemployed millions back on the job.

Once employment is provided for any considerable proportion of these the buying power of the masses will increase and the results would quickly be apparent.

It will be of scant advantage for millions to be loaned to industry if that money is not put into action so that it will increase the amount of employment. It is not too much to say that it would be a just condition in the grant of any loan that it should be demanded that the loan be utilized in that respect.

Loans to industry should be granted with the chief aim of putting more men back at work, and of keeping those already employed from being thrown out of employment.

Getting work for the unemployed is the biggest task that is faced by America at the present time, and government loans should be directed in that line.

$100,000,000 WASTED

The American Legion last week came out against the disability allowance law which permits veterans who have been injured in civil life to draw regular monthly payments from the federal treasury, just as if they had been injured in war.

These payments are now costing the government over $100,000,000 a year, and in many cases are being made to men who are regularly employed and even to some who have large incomes. The payments range from $12 to $40 a month and are being drawn by 350,000 men.

Repeal of this law would be one of the quickest and easiest ways to effect a substantial economy in the federal budget, and it could be accomplished without injustice. The government is under no obligation to pay these pensions to men who suffered no disability in war.

MR. COOLIDGE FAVORS SALES TAX

People who control the government must pay the taxes to support it. Power and responsibility can not be separated, politically or economically. These thoughts supply the foundation upon which Calvin Coolidge builds up his advocacy of a general sales tax in the current issue of Collier's. In publicly announcing his views, the former president has apparently come to his conclusions after long deliberation.

When a large number of persons pay small direct amounts, they share in the cost of maintaining protection for their property. Nearly two-thirds the population, Mr. Coolidge estimates, belong to the class which does own property, often through investment in securities or in insurance supported by securities. It is to their interest to maintain the integrity of these forms of wealth through stability of government which, accordingly, they must finance with their taxes.

The alternative of soaking the rich would mean ultimately that authority would pass into the hands of the few who pay the bills. Conversely, spreading out widely and thinly the tax pressure will guarantee a corresponding distribution of the rights which control property. The general sales tax meets the need of a self-governing nation without weighing appreciation upon the consumer.

CHAUTAUQUA WEEK'S PASSING?

If the current season doesn't hear the chautauqua sing its swan song the next few years probably will. Throughout the country there are indications that this institution is making a sort of last stand for existence. Every season closes with fewer communities renewing their contracts and with more chautauquas going out of business.

Many causes are contributing to its demise. Most of the old head-lining spell-binders who were wont to trod the chautauqua planks in years gone by are dead, in their dotages or out of popular favor. Talent has been attracted to other fields by higher pay, and the talkies, radio and automobile furnish stiff competition.

The chautauque was intended to provide the people of the smaller communities with a variety of instruction and entertainment that was difficult to obtain in any other way. It offered programs by readers, lecturers, impersonators and musicians. There was a junior department to attract the young and make chautauqua week a community affair in fact as well as in name.

Today even the villager demands something more spectacular than he can find in the chautauqua tent. And not finding it there he discontinues buying season tickets for the family.

Pompous Dignity
Sitting in a Strawberry Patch
Gypsy Fires

By MARSHALL MASLIN

When I have seen Dignity go pompously down the street, stroking his long gray beard, speaking in slow and measured tones, begging a smile and never condescending to a laugh, whenever I have seen Dignity in his grave and shallow role—I have longed for a banana peel or any other slippery indignity that would send False Dignity sprawling. . . . I believe in Courage. I believe in Dignity When I see it slowly striding down the street I think, "Behold that muck is a man who is afraid of life and dares not let himself be seen."

If you have never crouched in the middle of a strawberry patch and sought the red fruit beneath the wide green leaves, and eaten—and eaten—and eaten—and gotten a crick in the back and your face all stained and your hands all dirty—and never stopped until you had eaten your fill and couldn't possibly eat another—well, you don't know what you have missed. One of the juiciest experiences of life has passed you by.

Somewhere in the essays of the wise Montaigne he tells of being surprised in his home by friends who came to pay an important visit—and found him on his knees on the floor playing with children. . . . They smiled and he rebuked them and his defense of himself is one of the pleasantest passages in literature.

Once I told an acquaintance that I was about to be married. He leaned to me confidentially and gave me detailed instructions as to how I could "get out of it." . . . I thanked him gravely but did not take the advice.

It seems to me I've written of that man and his advice before, but what if I have? . . . The sun comes back each morning, the moon appears in fullness once a month, green grass comes back each spring—why shouldn't a poor writer repeat what he has written before?

When I was a stone-bruised boy I passed a gypsy camp in the dark and stood around and heard their strange tongue and watched the flames of those gypsy fires. . . . Something wild and free was in our neighborhood that night. . . . And I shall be old and dried up and ready for the wind to blow me away before I forget the strangeness of fire the gypsies made.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

JUST HUMAN

A certain grandson of Queen Victoria, when a freshman at Oxford, had spent all of his allowance and, what is worse, gone ten pounds in debt.

He appealed to his royal grandmother, asking her for an advance on future remittances. He didn't get it. Instead, he received a lengthy letter from that austere lady containing some reproof and much, much advice.

In due course the young man replied to this. He had, he said, decided to heed everything his grandmother had said about conservatism and thrift and had, in fact, already begun by selling the original of her letter to a collector for twenty-five pounds.

YOUR EMOTIONS

Some days you are in high spirits and little troubles do not depress you.

Other days, conditions are as good, yet you are melancholy and irritable. Often you feel so happy, and at such times you cannot understand why you are so sad and cranky with nameless fear clutching at your heart at other times.

Aren't these two conditions the result of your viewpoint upon life?

Of course there may be mental and physical troubles sufficient to affect your spirits, but why lose sight entirely of the brightness in life?

If you could control your morose and sullen qualities you might enjoy many more happy days than you do.

One day should be just as happy as another, each day presents about the same number of annoyances. It is largely a matter of self-control.

But you are unwilling to ignore vexations and real troubles. You are not willing to exercise your powers to overcome your tendency to gloominess.

You prefer a foreboding outlook to disciplining yourself.

If you would but realize that your mind works more freely and actively when you do control emotions, you might be better able to cope with big problems.

Fame Recorded For World Fliers Despite Plane Crash

Though Failing To Attain Their Objective To Cut Down Time For Circling The Globe, Mattern And Griffin Hang Up Two New Aviation Records

In spite of the crash in central Europe which ended their hopes of breaking the round-the-world flight record of Post and Gatty, James Mattern and Bennett Griffin are credited with achievements in speed and flying efficiency. Their performance in establishing two new records—the fastest trans-Atlantic crossing and the first non-stop flight from the United States to Berlin—are recognized as definite contributions to the progress of aviation.

"So far as records go, they have two to their credit. The best time for a trans-Atlantic crossing and the honor of being first in 'linking' this continent straight with Berlin," says the BALTIMORE SUN, predicting that they will try again for the bigger undertaking and remarking that "nobody but record-seeking aviators will ever choose to travel in such style, anyway, and for most of us there is no comfort or even meaning in demonstrations that the earth is only a week in circumference."

The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS feels that "the two latest challenges of fate are alive and well, with honors enough to console them and that such flights have distinct value," for "experienced men gain knowledge that may be of service to others." The Daily News concludes: "Reduction of travel time is important for a world that becomes increasingly interdependent. Insofar as success is attained confidence in aviation is strengthened. Even accidents play a useful part by disclosing mechanical weaknesses that can be eliminated in later airplane models."

"They have a new Atlantic record for their consolation," advises the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, with the comment that "it takes courage and determination and great physical endurance to make the attempt, and these are qualities which cannot too often be demonstrated as an example to the race." The Times-Union suggests that "probably in a few years someone will be offering a cup for the annual round-the-world race." The BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD states: "In flying from Harbor Grace to Berlin without stop they had accomplished what others have tried and missed. It is from such failures as these men made that great triumphs are wrought."

The HARTFORD TIMES voices the opinion: "The airplane still catches popular fancy when sent into extraordinary trials." It can do wonders but everything must be right. It is another thing which is as strong as its weakest link.

"Americans," proclaims the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS, "are surely taking aviation honors in quick succession and the prize is becoming these important events one after the other. As the history of aviation is permanently enshrined in book form the United States will figure very prominently in that volume as her sons and daughters have greatly distinguished themselves in the air."

"The frontier at which Alexander went because there were no more worlds to conquer should be due soon, for there is no distance left," declares the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE. "Everything is speeded up, except politics and political thought. We still run the government at Washington on a horse-back schedule of George Washington's time. We still, nearly all of us, do our thinking as if the world were organized as it was in Grover Cleveland's time. Everything else physical and mental has become contemporary. How soon will politics?"

"The unerring accuracy with which these two aviators spanned the tricky Atlantic spite of rain and fog," says the MIAMI DAILY NEWS, "testifies not only to the ability of the pilots, but as well to the improvement of planes and 'blind flying' instruments used to navigate them when bad weather interferes."

"The task of the REGISTER-REPUBLIC declares: 'It means a terrific, unrelenting concentration on the task in hand, clear, keen eyes and judgment; unwavering self-confidence; and it means luck, too, in generous measure.'"

People Make Life A Tangled Puzzle When Trying To Solve World's Problems, Divine Says

DR. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK
Pastor Of Riverside Church, New York City

For multitudes of people religion has ceased being a source of confidence and joy and life and become a matter of debate. The symbol of much modern religion is a discussion group. These groups are predominantly appreciative. They enjoy their religion, live by it, make a festival of it, create great music to celebrate it, build a cathedral to enshrine it. Other generations are predominantly critical. They ask questions, raise doubts, seek for reasons, analyze their faith.

No doubt, an exist as to the kind of generation we are living in. Multitudes of people are intensely interested in religion and a midnight session on a college campus is almost sure to discuss two subjects—love and religion; but it is religion as a problem to be debated, not as a privilege to be enjoyed.

The tragic situation in the world is a large accentuates this mood. Everything is a problem—business, education, politics, internationalism—so that people become excessively problem-conscious, until all life appears at a tangled puzzle. In consequence, insanity increases, suicides mount, nervous breakdowns multiply, and even more normal people lose the faith and morale to solve the very problems they worry over. Under these circumstances it is important to see that religion is like nature or music or the family: problems do abound in all of them, but also privileges to be rejoiced in and lived by. Granted that a man who tries to take the privileges without facing the problems is a sentimentalist! It also is true that a man who in any such realm becomes so problem-conscious that he does not rejoice in its powers and opportunities becomes dry, unhappy and futile.

Children Frolic At Camp For Last Time
Organizations And Clubs Make Possible Outing For Children At Camp East Brook

A group of 25 happy children have left Camp East Brook after spending a most enjoyable week which was made possible by the clubs and Bible classes of New Castle.

In the time the children were there they gained as high as two and three-quarter pounds.

The group enjoyed to the fullest extent the association they had with one another out of doors. Each one entered into one of the following activities: Archery, handicraft, rhythm band, drama class, beginners' swimming tests and life saving tests.

Much enthusiasm was derived from the folk games, baseball, evening stunts and the entertainment. Each cabin helped prepare services for morning worship and also for the campfire entertainment in the evening.

The camp has been closed for the regular camping period but may be rented by responsible groups by calling the Y. W. C. A. or the chairman, Mrs. Robert Eckles.

The following clubs and Bible classes made it possible for the children to enjoy this never to be forgotten week: B. and P. W. club, College club, Music club, Blue Tri- angle club of the Y. W. C. A., the Vigilant class of the First Presbyterian church, Woman's club, The Reading Circle, Mrs. James T. Ray, Wimodausis club, Lawrence chapter of D. A. R., Hershey chapter of the First Presbyterian church, Men's Bible class of the Highland U. P. church, Dorcas class of the Epworth M. E. church, Baldwin class of the Highland U. P. church, Rotary club, Kiwanis club, Art club, Gleaners of Second U. P. church and a friend.

Caldwell's Report Enjoyed By Rotary

Club President Relates Trip To Seattle Convention, Tour In West

President William J. Caldwell of the local Rotary club today related his report of Rotary International's recent convention at Seattle with the clubmen when they attended the regular luncheon-meeting in The Castleton.

Caldwell was Rotary's delegate from here. He enjoyed the sessions and afterward took sight-seeing jaunt to other western cities.

The club easily learned from their delegate's instructive resume that Rotary today stands firm and sound in its service contributions to cities, states, nations and the world. Quoting in part from an address given by the retiring international president of Rotary, Almon E. Roth of Stanford university, Mr. Caldwell declared:

"What is the standing of Rotary in the countries I have visited? It is unnecessary for me to dwell upon the esteem in which it is held in countries of Europe and North America. We are guests at luncheon of the governor general of South Africa. We were received as guests by the governors of all the Indian provinces. The viceroy of India and Lady Willingdon were particularly interested in the former taking me aside after lunch and expressing the opinion that if India had more of the friendly Rotary inter-racialism, much of the present bitterness would never have arisen. . . If we wish Rotary to be a force, an influence in the world, and to accomplish something, if we wish the nations and the peoples of the world to accept of service as a common rule of life, if we wish to secure the wise leadership of Rotary in the days to come, we must have men as members who are really representative of their business and profession."

Raid Made After Man Claims Theft

Principals At Place Raided Are Assessed Stiff Fines By The Mayor

Following the claim made by John F. Cope of R. D. No. 8, that he had been relieved of about ten dollars while getting some beer in the place of Mrs. Jennie DiNuccio and Louis Zeppetella, on Bolt street, police authorities on Saturday evening secured a search warrant and visited the place. They found and confiscated 132 bottles of beer, some wine and some new pint whiskey bottles, they report. Mrs. DiNuccio and Zeppetella were given a hearing before Mayor Charles B. Mayne today and each fined $50 on charges of being the keeper of a disorderly house. They paid the fines.

Rumor Dog Catcher Inhuman, Provokes Reply From Settle

"I would like to face the man who willfully is spreading the report that I throw captured dogs into the city garbage incinerator alive. It's nothing but a lie. I'm an officer of the Lawrence County Humane society and well know what humane and what's not."

That was City Dog Catcher Charles E. Settle's brisk statement today, after malicious reports that he was cruelly murdering dogs alive finally reached him. Settle brandished the rumors as contemptuous spite work on the part of someone. Settle's method of disposing of dogs is recognized as the most humane now followed. The stray dogs are shot, their ears then clipped and about 15 minutes later are consumed.

Ruhlman Arrives At Training Camp

Is Enjoying The Life Of A Naval Recruit According To His Letter

Robert P. Ruhlman, who recently enlisted in the United States navy through Chief Boatwain's Mate F. R. Allison of the local recruiting station, has written an interesting letter from the Great Lakes Training camp, where he is located now in which he states that he is much pleased with the service.

His letter follows: "Dear Mr. Allison: We arrived here about ten thirty in the morning but we have not yet formed our company as we do not have enough men. We only have thirty-five men and we need seventy-two to form the company. I hope the rest get in here soon, so we can get organized and get into training.

We received our first issue of clothing the day following our arrival. We went to the show last night. It was the five star final. Company 1 puts on a program tonight. I am going to that also.

I am having a good time with the boys. They make it a happy place. We have an excellent place in the barracks. It is a good place for any boy to go to. We are under a quarantine here for three weeks after the company is formed. That is why I am in such a hurry to get across to the other station. I am expecting a letter from you very soon.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT P. RUHLMAN.

BONUS MARCHERS STILL PASS THROUGH

In spite of the fact that Congress has completed its work for the year and there is little likelihood for a relief bill affecting them being passed at this session, bonus marchers still trek through the city enroute to Washington.

A group from Detroit and vicinity, numbering about 80 arrived here late Sunday evening in trucks and camped for the night at the fair grounds, leaving early this morning.

Several cars were observed going the other way, carrying bonus marchers home.

SENATOR REED USES CRUTCHES

Hurts Ankle On Spike And Is Suffering With Fracture Of Bone

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 18.—Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania was at the Senate session on Saturday limping awkwardly about on a pair of new crutches.

Reed came into the Senate chamber just after the Senate convened, swinging himself along on the crutches, one of his ankles bandaged. Surrounded by friends to find out what had happened, the Senator explained it wasn't anything serious.

About a week ago he had been walking along a riverside here and had hurt his ankle on a large spike. He hadn't thought much of the injury at that time, but yesterday the ankle became painful and upon examination a physician announced that a bone was fractured.

Anyhow, the Senator was ordered to crutches, and being new at the game, spent a rather difficult last day bumping about among the Senate desks on his new crutches.

Bean Beetles Are Destroying Crops

Rev. George Smith Says The Best Way To Battle Them Is With Poison

Farmers and gardeners report considerable trouble with bean beetles this summer. The bean beetle, according to Rev. George L. Smith of West State street, looks something like a lady bug, but it is a little larger and is spotted. It lays its eggs under the bean leaves in much the same manner as a potato bug. When the eggs hatch out, the little beetles breakfast on the home leaf and then start out to devour all their neighbors. It is not long until they have stripped the bean stalk of its clothes.

There are two ways of fighting the bean beetle, according to Rev. Smith. You can hunt for the leaves upon which the eggs are laid and destroy them, or you can spray the beans with a mixture that will kill the beetles. Hunting the eggs is a tedious task, spraying them is much easier. Smith was heading home with the "making" for spray when seen by the reporter. The beetle is over in his garden are going to be sorry.

Guards Patrol Around Woman Evangelist's Home

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, July 18.—Armed guards today patrolled a Moorish castle at Lake Elsinore where Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist of Angelus Temple, lay critically ill with a basal skull fracture suffered in a fall when told by her husband, David Hutton, Jr., that he had lost a $5000 judgment in a heartbalm suit to Myrtle Hazel Joan St. Pierre, Pasadena "health nurse." Physicians had warned that the slightest shock probably would cause the noted evangelist's death.

Dr. Edward M. Williams announced her condition was "slightly improved" today, but that it was "still dangerous and the least excitement or shock could bring a sudden end."

Mrs. Hutton's flock filled Angelus Temple during the night offering prayers for her recovery and prayers today were continued in relays by the congregation.

More Visitors Are Reported At Mt. Gretna

Troop Goes Through Inspection With Flying Colors
On Friday

REGIMENT GOES ON BIVOUAC TODAY

(By FOREST L. FLORIDA, Troop Clerk)

COLEBROOK, Pa., July 18.—Friday evening the officers of the 103rd Cavalry gave a farewell dinner for Major General William C. Price, the retiring commanding officer of the 28th Division.

In introducing the General to the officers, Colonel Arthur C. Colahan, the commanding officer, 103rd Cavalry said, "Gentlemen, he made us what we are, let us carry on." With that brief salutation he sat down and the applause that greeted the General spoke more than words could the regard in which our Chief is held by everyone who knows him.

More visitors arrived Friday: Mrs. Homer A. Measel, the wife of our stable sergeant, his brother, John Measel, and the Misses Meba Brinkner and Gladys Van Eman came into camp Friday morning after an all night ride, they too, reporting a pleasant journey. We now have seven visitors in camp, including Mrs. Blintrim but not including Major W. Fulton Jackson and Lt. Donald E. Dennis, who have left Friday morning for their respective training camps. Starting Saturday morning extra help was placed in the kitchen to assure plenty of good food and clean equipment for the visitors. From all indications our quota of visitors this year will exceed that of any previous year within my experience.

Stand Inspection Well
The troop went through their bunk inspection and field inspection Friday in fine shape. Whether or not any official rating will be given is unknown. So far no official or unofficial rating has been received either on the Platoon Leadership Problem or the winners of the penmanship contest. Our kitchen has been given excellent reports but to our knowledge the privilege of placing the guidon in front of the kitchen for the best that day has not been given any troop.

taining Major General Price. We have a mighty fine band and they certainly can make music talk.

A good deal has often been spoken about the first sergeants "goat". Well, I found it today and to prove my statement I took a picture of it along with the first sergeant. I expect to keep it to show future first sergeants what their "goat" looks like. Whether Sgt. Pollock will censor this or not is not known but I just got a "cussing" for writing this thing called a typewriter function, so I guess I'll survive my rashness. Time will tell.

Today, the entire regiment will go on bivouac and the men and horses will have a strenuous week ahead of them as they will have long mounted hikes each day, with tactical problems to occupy their attention.

Two Hundred At Annual Society Picnic Sunday

The Hebrew Free Loan society had an annual picnic yesterday at the Harris farm, Neshannock Falls. The affair was well attended, approximately 200 people being there. Games and sport were furnished the high-lights throughout the entire afternoon. Everyone seemed to throw away their troubles and cares and enter into the spirit of the occasion.

Refreshments were served during the entire proceedings to the active picnicers by the committee in charge. The organization gave a vote of thanks to the men in charge for making this year's outing such a huge success, namely: Dr. P. Alpern, J. Alpern, H. Edelstein, B. Plant, M. Sigler, H. Pitnoff, H. No More Piles

How To End Terrible Agony
Without Salves Or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only so when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

HEM-ROID tablets have an almost unbelievable record of success. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Boker's Cut Rate and New Castle Drug Co., and druggists everywhere invite every sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

Troop 17 Moves To Indian Village

Sleep In Teepees—New Camping Groups Arrive At Camp Phillips

(Special To The News)

CAMP JOHN M. PHILLIPS, July 18.—It may not have rained Saturday but Camp Phillips certainly was flooded with new campers. Some old campers ended another season at camp. Despite the business connected with this day the program went on almost the same.

The boys of New Castle troop 17, who have been winning inspection right along, have at last given the other huts a break. They moved to the Indian village Saturday—but not before winning the banner again as a passing shot. The Indians are now sleeping in teepees which they had the practical experience of erecting. Some of them are even cooking their own breakfast as one of the requirements for camping merit badge. Sunday evening, these jokers of the camp, went around demonstrating their ability to push an egg through a ring. The camp clerk bit. Did someone say Norton was down there in the afternoon? That accounts for it.

Saturday evening another bugling contest was held in the barn to determine the camp bugler for the coming week. George Horton and Ed Harper were eliminated between the reels of moving pictures shown by Sid Smith. He presented pictures taken by himself of scenes of the Sea Scout cruise, Brady's Bend, Niagara Falls, Cascade park and as a final feature on Our Gang comedy. The pictures were enjoyed immensely by the scouts, who appreciate the courtesy of G. E. Montgomery, former assistant scoutmaster of N. C. troop 15, who lent the camera.

The regular Sunday service was led by Al Stump. George Marquis delivered a short talk on being reverent and Frank Elverson spoke on trustworthiness.

When the "17" fellows moved out of the Indian village banner race a troop from West Pittsburg moved in and took the banner to the Poister hut.

Sid Smith, New Castle photographer and troop 15 scoutmaster, spent the whole day taking pictures of the camp and its inmates. Pictures were taken of the campers in a group, life guards, tennis players, divers, swimmers, even the typewriter got its picture "took." When developed these pictures are to be exhibited at the camp.

Boating, archery, tennis and other games occupied the fellows' time until the darkness began to fall when a game of capture the flag was played. With George Horton captain of one team and Budd Cross captain of the other. The latter team was the winner of a series of games. The scouts gathered round a campfire and sang songs before turning in.

Seek To Force Abandonment Of All Prison Camps

Drive In Florida To Force
Governor To Order
Move

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 18.—A drive to force Governor Doyle E. Carlton into ordering all Florida prison camps abandoned was launched here today by the congregation of the Calvary Baptist church, after hearing Al F. Gorman, foreman of the Duval county grand jury, charge that Arthur Mallefert, youthful New Jersey prisoner, was murdered by camp guards.

Gorman headed the grand jury which indicted two guards for the "torture death" of Mallefert.

He told the congregation which is the largest in Florida, that the Mallefert case was not an isolated case. He declared there was a boy prisoner at the Raiford prison farm, near here, who had been shot in the back by a guard. He said another prisoner died three weeks ago at the farm, his face covered with scars, his death being attributed to heart failure.

The congregation was so aroused by Gorman's talk that it adopted a resolution, demanding that Governor Carlton investigate the prison system, praising the work of the grand jury and pledging its cooperation to Gorman.

The Rev. Dr. Allen G. Shuler, pastor of the church, criticized Governor Carlton's "lack of action" in the prison scandals, deplored the release of the two guards on $5,000 bail and appealed to his congregation to help "wipe out prison camps." He is a cousin of the famous Rev. "Fighting Bob" Shuler, of the Trinity Methodist church of Los Angeles.

Hoover Stops On Way To Camp To Aid Auto Victim

LURAY, Va., July 18.—President Hoover rested Sunday at his Rapidan river mountain camp from the strain of the final days of congress.

He arrived from Washington in the middle of the day after pausing on the road to get aid for victims of an automobile crash. His own car, as is customary, was followed by one occupied by Commander Joel T. Boone, White House physician. In order that Boone would not follow him and leave the injured people the president had his car stopped.

The physician treated Alfred F. Platt of Martinsburg, W. Va., for severe cuts about the head and a fractured wrist. Automobiles driven by Platt, whose wife was alone but uninjured, and by James Walter of Arlington, Va., had collided. Mrs. Walter, thrown through the windshield and badly cut, had been taken to a hospital when the president came up.

Reaching camp, Mr. Hoover found the oppressive heat had reached even that altitude, but he took a long tramp during the afternoon. Mrs. Hoover was already there, having stayed in the mountains since last Monday. He had promised to join her, but his decision to go was sudden, nevertheless.

He will remain, unless plans are changed, until Monday afternoon. That altitude, but he took a long tramp during the afternoon. Mrs. Hoover was already there, having stayed in the mountains since last Monday. He had promised to join her, but his decision to go was sudden, nevertheless.

His only guests at the camp are Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sullivan.

Proposed State Cuts Would Hamper Care Of Insane In State

(Special To The News)
HARRISBURG, July 18.—In answer to numerous requests from institutions and agencies as to probable results of passage of the Steedie economy bill, the Department of Welfare has issued statements showing the extent to which the work of caring for mental and penal cases and the State's indigent will be hampered should the bill be finally enacted in its present form.

The department has informed county commissioners and directors of the poor that if the cuts indicated in the bill become effective the Welfare department and many of the state-owned institutions will find themselves seriously crippled. Indicating that cuts as proposed in the measure are unsafe, the department informed county officers that if the bill becomes effective:

"We can no longer accept the commitment of any insane from your county."

"It will become necessary to discharge certain cases now in state care, and transfer them back to county and local institutions."

"It will be necessary to transfer a substantial number of inmates from the penitentiaries to the county jails."

"The result, if this bill passes, will be a large addition to county expenses and a corresponding increase in local taxes."

Regarding the construction program for state-owned institutions, the department believes no argument is necessary as to the importance of "work relief." If money could be found it would be the best policy to go through with the entire construction program for Department of Welfare institutions as originally planned.

The unencumbered balance in the appropriations for construction and improvements in the state-owned institutions is $4,023,000. Of this amount the House Appropriations committee proposes to spend only $80,000—a cut of practically the entire amount now unencumbered.

Department officials believe it hazardous to take chances with appropriations for maintenance of state institutions. It is unfair to hold a warden responsible for the safekeeping of nearly 3,000 prisoners and tell him he must trim his budget $77,000 below what that warden, his board of trustees and the Department of Welfare believe safe.

The population of all state institutions shows an annual increase of approximately 6 per cent, which necessarily adds to the amount of money required each year to operate these institutions.

Unemployment conditions have served to increase the volume of work which the Department of Welfare is required by law to perform. The proposed cuts in the administration budget will necessitate curtailment of the department personnel, and seriously endanger adequate performance of departmental duties and service to local communities.

Regarding the Mothers' Assistance fund and the state-aid hospital, for which bills have been introduced restoring abatements necessitated by the Talbot bill, no appropriations have so far been made to effect the restoration of these abated funds.

Romantic Women Are Returning To Civilization

(International News Service)
COLON, Panama, July 18.—Mrs. Cora D. Brown and Mrs. Gladys Hill of Akron, O., who thought it would be romantic to marry Indians, are homeward bound today pretty well convinced that life in civilization is much better than romance among the savages.

The two women, rescued from an island in the San Blas region by a naval transport plane, sailed for the United States yesterday on the steamship Ancon.

Though they had rested here for twenty four hours both were still sobbing and on the verge of hysterics as they boarded the ship.

MANY PEOPLE SPEND

Time defending their mistakes that should be spent correcting them.

A lifetime trying to prove that thing right which they know is wrong.

Half their life going to the devil and the other half trying to come back.

Their best efforts on trifles as if they expected greatness in payment.

One hour of half-hearted effort and five hours of waiting.

Their whole life enslaving their soul to their body.

More time lamenting their defeats than would be necessary to win victories.

MANY PROBLEMS LEFT UNSOLVED BY CONGRESS

Congress Session Is Now Concluded

Seven And Half Months Session Ends On Saturday Night

PROHIBITION LEFT FOR NEXT SESSION

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, July 18.—The seven and a half months session of congress, which ended Saturday night, left many important problems of legislation hanging fire for consideration next December.

Although leaders on both sides pointed to the far-reaching effect of measures enacted, the legislation of the session was confined largely to strengthening the nation's financial and credit structure to withstand the strain of present conditions.

Problems Unsolved
Comparatively little progress was made in solving the railroad, bus, banking, power and agricultural problems which were prominently discussed.

Permanent banking legislation, urged by the Treasury and Federal Reserve board, fell by the wayside in the fight between the Steagall deposits guaranty and the Glass branch banking measures.

Congress is still torn by discussion over the question of branch banking, urged in the senate measure. The senate has indicated it will have none of the house proposal to guarantee bank deposits.

Complete revision of the railroad rate-making power of the Interstate Commerce Commission and repeal of the recapture clause, which placed a tentative liability of $360,000,000 on the railroads, was recommended by the house interstate committee. Fear of political consequences, however, prevented action.

Regulation of interstate bus traffic, which also involves the railroad problem, also was left unsettled and will be a question for the next congress.

No Agriculture Relief Bill
The past session for the first time in years failed to pass a bill designed to relieve agriculture.

The combination of the three great farm organizations—the National Grange, Farm Bureau and Farmers Union—was left for future action.

The measure combines the equalization fee, the export debenture and a domestic allotment plan of restricting production and stiffening prices.

For years the farm organizations have been at odds on legislation. They reached an agreement by including all their plans, and proposed to give the farm board the option of using any one or all of them.

Senate progressives continued their attack on the "power trust", battling against the proposed throttling of the investigation of the Federal Trade Commission in the name of economy.

Complete federal regulation of interstate power activities has been adopted as the goal for which they will strive next winter.

Prohibition, another question left unsolved, will be with congress when it meets again.

Meetings were held each Sunday until 1838 when a log building was erected on the present site of the church. This was replaced by a brick building in 1852 and this structure was destroyed by a windstorm on March 27, 1911. The present brick building was dedicated June 9, 1912.

On April 19, 1852, the name of the church was changed from Upper Bull Creek to Westminster Presbyterian church. Rev. James Norris is present pastor of the church.

Warfare Begins For Guardsmen At Mt. Gretna

Battle And Confusion Of Getting Ready For Mythical Enemy Engages Troopers

ALL UNITS ARE NOW IN FIELD
(International News Service)
CAMP O'NEIL, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 18.—The battle and confusion of "war" pervaded the Pennsylvania National Guard encampment today as infantry, cavalry, medical aviation and transportation units prepared to engage a mythical enemy.

All units of the division now in the field, with a total strength of 5,500 soldiers, will take part in the combat maneuvers this week. The "fighting" takes place 20 miles north of the base near Indian township on the site of the new military reservation property acquired by the state last year. The country is mountainous and thickly wooded.

"Hostilities" began at 8 o'clock today when the 103rd cavalry regiment camped at Colebrook three miles from division headquarters at Mount Gretna, broke camp and took to the road in full regalia. The men had orders to march northward by the shortest route and seize the pass in Blue Mountains at Indiantown gap.

For Three Nights
Acting as advance party, with scouts out still farther in advance was the third squadron under command of Major Edward T. Miller. The rest of the troops trailed far in the rear, riding by twos in the dusty road. Sufficient rations were taken to sustain the troops for a four-day march. The citizen-soldiers will spend three nights in bivouac and ride their horses between 75 and 100 miles before the combat problem is completed.

National Guard airplanes of the 28th division, located at the army air depot in Middletown, under Major John V. Dallen, flew over the route of march and made connections with the cavalry by means of messages dropped to the ground and by radio.

Infantry regiments of the 56th brigade under the leadership of Brigadier General Robert M. Brookfield of Philadelphia, will take part in the "war" on Tuesday and Wednesday. They will move toward the cavalry at Indiantown Gap in army trucks and afoot.

Basic Training
Staff officers of this brigade scored 100 per cent in qualifications with the pistol, it was announced by Capt. Charles L. Supplee, General Brookfield, Capt. George L. Roat and Lieut. John D. Beck qualified as experts; Major Albert R. Stuetz, Lieut. George Ansp and Lieut. Leighton P. Stradley as sharpshooters, and Captain Supplee and Lieut. Carryl E. Stauffer as marksmen.

The guardsmen of the two regiments comprising this brigade continued their basic training today in musketry, bayonet and hand grenade drill, and special combat firing.

Other units now in camp for two weeks' duty and which will take part in the road march and division maneuvers are the 28th special troops of Philadelphia under Major James B. Cousart; the 103rd medical regiment of western and central Pennsylvania under Col. Edward Lland; 28th division trains, central Pennsylvania, commanded by Major George P. Drake and the division and brigade headquarters companies.

Police Cruiser Fires On Auto

Girl And Companion Are Wounded In Episode At Akron, Ohio

AKRON, Ohio, July 18.—A 22-year-old Alliance girl and a man companion were shot with a police riot gun early Sunday, when a radio cruiser patrolman, pursuing prowlers, opened fire on a automobile with four passengers.

An investigation, started immediately by Sgt. Fred Vierick, will be taken before Acting Chief F. W. Diesz at 3 this afternoon. Patrolman Wallace Graves, according to the report made to Capt. William Pealson, in charge at the time, fired four charges at close range into the machine.

The girl victim gave her name as Helen Knau, 22 of 2459 S. Arch street, Alliance. She was taken to City hospital for treatment of wounds in her left leg and released later Sunday. She said she was a waitress.

Some of the shots struck James Pickett, 30, of 48 E. Mapledeale avenue, in the left arm above the elbow. He was treated at City hospital and sent home.

With two men who gave their names as Roy Morrison and Joseph Easterly, Pickett and Miss Knau were riding west on N. Adams street. Easterly was driving the small coach.

Patrolman Graves told his superiors he had become separated from Patrolman D. W. Mellinger in chasing two prowlers in the alley near the Albrecht bakery.

As Graves ran from the alley, he said, he was nearly run down by a car which he attempted to flag to a stop with his flashlight.

Graves reported that he had to jump to avoid being hit and then let go with the riot gun. When the car kept on going he shot three more times, he said. The slugs struck the rear and left front door, several plowing through and striking Pickett and Miss Knau.

Easterly and companions said that they merely were driving past when the shot suddenly rattled their automobile.

STROUSS-HIRSHBERG'S

Would Have Gland Tests Of Politicians

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service Science Writer.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Politics may be "funny" to Speaker Garner, but to Dr. A. S. Blumgarten, special lecturer at Columbia university's summer session, it is a matter of endocrine gland function in the individual politician.

"A man," he said today, "is as good an executive as his endocrine system makes him. If he has not the proper glandular make-up for an executive position, the public suffers. It would be a splendid thing if government officials were required to submit to gland examinations."

Dr. Blumgarten, consulting endocrinologist at Lenox Hill and Lebanon hospitals, believes all school children should be given gland examinations "as a matter of course along with mental and physical examinations."

"Accurate and complete endocrine analysis of an individual would give full knowledge of his traits," he said. "Gland analysis for school children might have an important effect on teaching, even of normal children, because it would give the teacher complete understanding of the child's aptitudes and weaknesses and of his emotional nature."

The endocrine glands are the ductless glands of the body, which pour into the blood stream minute quantities of chemicals, known as "hormones." It is Dr. Blumgarten's belief that the function of these various glands conditions the whole emotional life of individuals.

caused the heaviest cordon of police since the war to be thrown around the executive mansion.

WASHINGTON'S RETREAT
